

Meeting 2 Notes

Topics Discussed:

After giving everyone time to consider further suggestions we clarified the following

- The map with a way to interact with students who have received aid by seeing the location of assistance and then linking to a profile of the student is a key feature.
- Translation to at minimum Spanish is a key feature
- The client is keen on an admin specific role to make changes through this role to the website.
- The calendar is a key feature where information for events can be created and reminders for users can be developed from this one feature.
- AI chatbot to help communicate upcoming events idea was thought upon by the client and they now seem very interested.
- We mentioned to the client that website hosting is an issue to consider – no other progress here.
- We were once again thanked for our effort and were reminded that the clients' main goal is a site that is effective at getting the project's main goals and work presented to people.
- The low-bandwidth page for a Guatemalan contact was brought up with the hope we can do it but not extremely high priority
- We discussed some database implementation of the students and Muath seemed to get a good idea of how to progress.
- We received, discussed, and clarified questions about branding, messages, and overall look the website should have.
- Big charity websites were shown to Luis to ask for potential design and feature ideas, we also requested he look around for ideas he was keen to implement.

Clarifications:

We clarified what exactly project ERASE does as an organization. Donations through them are not necessarily the primary feature we should implement but designing with it in mind will be good practice in case of future development. Next meeting we should clarify the level of desire for the design it themselves idea for the web page.
